We here are J Sweat Plastic Surgery and Med Spa respect your right to privacy and appreciate the growing concerns about how companies collect data and what they do with it. In Brief; we do not sell or forward any personal data without explicit permission under normal conditions. We will use your information to respond to you regarding the reason you contacted us.

How we collect:

This website utilizes Google Analytics to track and understand how users navigate and use the site. Google Analytics uses “cookies,” which are text files placed on the user’s computer, to gather standard Internet log information and visitor behavior information anonymously. The data generated by these cookies about your use of the website, which includes IP address, is transmitted to Google. There, it is used to assess site usage and to create reports of site activity for our analysis.

This information and analysis will never be used by J Sweat Plastic Surgery and Med Spa or any third party to collect any Personally Identifiable Information (PII). Google does not and will not associate your IP address with any other data held by Google. Neither we nor Google will link, or attempt to link, IP addresses with the identity of a user. Any data collected will never be associated with any PII from this site or others, unless explicitly submitted by a user through a fill-in form on our website.
